A Catalyst for Transformation

Women Thrive develops, shapes, and advocates for U.S. policies that foster economic opportunity for women living in poverty worldwide. We focus on making U.S. international assistance and trade programs more effective by prioritizing women. We believe that economic empowerment of women is not only right, it's also the most effective long-term solution to ending world poverty.

“Ending Global Poverty Begins with Women”

Why Women?

Women are at the greatest risk of being poor worldwide. Research and experience have shown that women in poor countries are more likely to use their income for food, healthcare and education for their children, helping to lift entire communities out of poverty.

Our work ensures that U.S. policy is addressing the barriers women face and supporting women's efforts to find their own path out of poverty.

Why U.S. Policy?

As a major world power, donor, and partner in international trade, the U.S. impacts women all over the world through its foreign policy. While individual direct assistance programs for women living in poverty worldwide are very important, positive U.S. policy is also crucial to ensure greater opportunity and long-lasting change for millions of women. That's why Women Thrive advocates for change in Washington, D.C.
