

♂ The Gender Agenda: ♀
GAINING MOMENTUM

Women's Month 2013

LAYOUT AND FORMAT OF WOMEN'S MONTH 2013 BOOKLET BY

Cynthia Williams (Ag. Director, Women's Department) and De Ann Buckley (Rural Women Development Officer, Women's Department)

Cover designed by Greg Godfrey

Greg's artistic interpretation:

The Booklet cover depicts women forging ahead in unity and grace, gaining momentum to keep the world moving. Women are moving forward, hand in hand with men,... happily, graciously and freely, while making radiant waves in their path....! They are moving together as one with the world, including men, gaining momentum to achieve gender equality.

International Women's Day/Women's Month Message 2013

Hon. Anthony "Boots" Martinez
Minister of Human Development, Social Transformation and Poverty Alleviation

The past four years the month of March in Belize has become synonymous with activities and events that recognize and celebrate the achievements and contributions of our Belizean women. For many, this observance often draws mixed opinions about whether all this "fuss" is really necessary. Despite the fact that there may not be total consensus, many public and private organizations have recognized the value of Women's Month and provide support on a yearly basis. This type of response also demonstrates that work still needs to be done to recognize that the empowerment of women is an indispensable tool for advancing national development and reducing poverty. This empowerment seeks to provide women with the opportunity to participate fully in the society, on equal terms with their male counterparts. The theme for this year's Women's Month, "The Gender Agenda: Gaining Momentum," was chosen with this in mind.

This year's theme calls for some stock taking. It provides us with an opportunity to step back to evaluate the advancements that have been made not only in women's rights, but in ensuring that an enabling environment exist where men and women, girls and boys can achieve their optimal development. It is an opportunity to educate ourselves on the impact gender has on society and to consider what support systems and frameworks need to be established to allow men and women to become true partners working together towards the development of their families, communities and the country as a whole. A person's sex should not dictate what that individual can become nor what they can contribute to their society and country. This does not imply that women and men, boys and girls are the same, but rather that each should be given the opportunity to develop and that each should be respected for their humanity. As a society, it is important to see that empowered women contribute to the health and productivity of whole families and communities and this in turn improves the prospects for the next generation.

The theme of this month's observance also calls for reflection and for the tough questions to be asked. These include questions about the existence of harmful traditional practices that limit the potential of women in Belize. Are women able to freely make decisions about their sexual and reproductive health? Are women able to access services that support them when they are facing situations of gender-based violence? Are the voices of men and women equally valued in all spheres of our society? I would say that if we were to answer these questions truthfully we may find that our society still has some ways to go in this quest for gender equality.

The first step that needs to be taken is that we must see that gender equality is about respecting each other as human beings with rights and responsibilities. We must also realize that as a developing country we can only achieve true develop when men and women both contribute. True national development can only occur if women are able to take a place at the table in the House of Representatives, in local governments, in the media, but also in their communities and households. At the same time, we must also recognize that stereotyping which often defines what a man should or should not be have a negative impact on men and women. The whole notion of a "Real Man" puts men under scrutiny and pressure to conform to society's definition of what all men must be and do. This often hinders them from communicating and participating more fully in all areas of their lives, mainly family life and their own health. These ideas about manhood are deeply ingrained from a very early age. Attitudes and behaviors that are risky and "tough" on the part of young men are often applauded by peers and condoned by society. These stereotypes result in harm to both women and men, and erode possibilities of establishing satisfying, mutually respectful relationships. We need to encourage and support reflection and discussion on issues surrounding masculinity, relationships, parenting and sexuality. This will contribute to the deconstruction of these negative, high-risk and harmful attitudes. We must recognize that gender equality cannot be achieved without engaging men's participation.

Expectations of how men and women should act in our society and what roles they should play are shaped by culture, religion and even economic, political and social circumstances. So they are not static; they can be changed. What does this mean? Well, it means that change lies in our hands, in your hands, in my hands. We must keep the momentum of women's empowerment going, remembering what has been accomplished but also what is still pending. Let's forge ahead as we try to build a true 21st century society. Mathma Ghandi's famous quote summarizes it best, "Let us be the change we want to see." Belize let us all make a commitment to be that change and embrace the gender agenda.

Have a Happy Women's Month!

WOMEN'S MONTH MESSAGE 2013

MRS. KIM SIMPLIS BARROW

SPECIAL ENVOY FOR WOMEN AND CHILDREN

The work toward gender equality never stops, but the progress being made becomes especially clear in the month of March when outstanding women and girls are recognized for their achievements and for fostering the change needed in their communities. This year's awardees are a major part of the reason we can proudly share the international theme, "The Gender Agenda: Gaining Momentum". These are women who work hard and give selflessly for the betterment of our nation; they are the women that we want to empower our girls to be.

The Women's Department has shown each year that there is no shortage of role models in this country. I hope that the bios contained in this booklet will serve as a beacon of hope for those who place a limit on where they can go because of where they come from. Let's keep the momentum growing by motivating more women and girls to uplift themselves, rise above the odds and chart their own paths to success.

I want to congratulate the awardees, not only for the accomplishments that earned them this recognition, but for having the drive and determination that made it possible. Happy Women's Month to all!

International Women's Day

International Women's Day (March 8th) is an occasion marked by women's groups around the world. Putting women and women's rights on the global agenda is the moving force behind this day. It is the story of ordinary women as makers of history; it is rooted in the centuries-old struggle of women to participate in society on an equal footing with men.

The tradition of celebrating International Women's Day represents at least nine decades of struggle for equality, justice, peace and development. The idea of a day for women, celebrated all over the world, began in America and Europe. The focus was the movement for women's rights and achieving universal suffrage for women. Between 1913 and 1917 women held rallies either to protest the war or to express solidarity with their sisters.

The International Women's Day protest that hanged the world occurred in Russia in 1917 (March 8th by Western Reckoning, February 23 on the Georgian calendar). Coming on the rise of long struggle and many strikes, International Women's Day 1917 inspired thousands of Russian women to leave their homes and factories to protest the terrible shortages of food, the high prices, the world war, and the increased suffering they had bitterly endured. The protest inspired the last push of a revolution. A general strike spread through Petrograd, and within a week, Czar Nicholas II was forced to abdicate. After 1917, and in honor of women's role in the Russian Revolution, International Women's Day secured its place on March 8th on socialist calendars.

The date became official in 1921, when Bulgarian women attending the International Women's Secretariat of the Communist International made a motion that the day be uniformly celebrated around the world on March 8th.

In the early days of its observance, International Women's Day was celebrated as a socialist holiday honoring working women. With the resurgence of feminism in the 1960s came a renewed interest in International Women's Day. Feminists found it a ready-made holiday for the celebration of women's lives and work and began promoting March 8th as such.

In Belize, the first International Women's Day was observed in the late 1970s and was initiated by a strong group of women from various organizations. Since those early years, International Women's Day has assumed a new dimension for women in Belize. The growing international women's movement, which has been strengthened by four global United Nation's conferences, has helped make the commemoration a rallying point for coordinated efforts to demand women's rights and participation in the political and economic process. Increasingly in Belize International Women's Day is a time to reflect on progress made, to call for change and to celebrate the acts of courage and determination by ordinary Belizean women who have played an extraordinary role in the history of women's rights. Over the years, International Women's Day was commemorated in Belize by planning and executing a week of activities during the Month of March.

In 2009, in an effort to provide more agencies with opportunities to highlight women's issues and the achievements of women in observance of International Women's Day, the Women's Department transformed what was originally Women's Week into Women's Month.

Outstanding Women

The Women's Department once again has chosen to honor six women from each district for their outstanding contribution to their communities. These women clearly demonstrate that they were willing to be the change they wanted to see in Belize. Each of them deserves our admiration and respect because they have served Belize well. They have opted to share their gifts and skills so that their communities could benefit.

The Department also invited agencies to honor women chosen by their respective organizations to be acknowledged for the outstanding contributions they have made to the organization or to the community on a whole. It is because of these women and the many others like them that we celebrate this Month.

It is important that we take note of all their contributions and use this momentum to reenergize our efforts in the path that leads to women's empowerment and the respect of their human rights. This year's theme, "The Gender Agenda: Gaining Momentum", invites us not only to celebrate all that has been accomplished, but to look forward to the work that still needs to be done.

These women will be honored at the 8th Annual Outstanding Women's Awards Ceremony on March 27th, 2013 at the Bliss Centre for the Performing Arts at 7:00 p.m.

Raquel Trapp's motto in life is to encourage and educate women, men and children to reach their goals despite their situation in life. She was born in Belize City on July 27, 1973 where she attended primary school. She began high school but was unable to finish due to financial difficulties. However, she did not let that stop her from reaching her goals or changing who she was. Ms. Trapp is a proud mother of four children. She is presently the community health worker in Mahogany Heights where her official duties are to plan and implement health education session; conduct sessions in school and the community; execute health activities within her community; collect vital statistics on birth and deaths in the community; arrange disaster preparedness trainings; and community home visits. Aside from her duties as a health worker, Ms. Trapp also works along with other organizations to organize sessions on nutrition, counseling to prevent suicide, water sanitation, and most importantly domestic violence and child abuse which she see is growing in her village. To educate and empower villagers in and around her community, Ms. Raquel goes the extra mile literally walking to everyone's house to speak with them to ensure that they can access the services they need.

Ms. Trapp organizes an annual back to school drive to assist children who are in difficult situations in the community with school materials. Despite not getting a pay check, Ms. Raquel tries to assist her community whenever she can and would even go to businesses to ask for donations to give out to some of the villagers. Ms. Trapp is an active member of her church and she assists by taking the children and youth to a yearly camp where they participate in activities that encourage them to reach for their goals in life. Her goal is to help them be resilient despite life experiences and most of all, to be strong and learn how to cope with issues that they might face on a daily basis.

Carmen Marcela McCulloch was born on the July 17th, 1969 and grew up in the silent village of Sand Hill. She attended Guadalupe R.C. School with her other brothers and sisters. At the age of 22, she got married but her husband was violent. She had two daughters, Priscilla Melinda and Minita Kamisha. After seventeen years of turmoil, she decided that it was enough and separated from her husband in October of 2008. Things were very rough for her family after the divorce but she realized that tough times never last but tough people do. During those times, she received assistance from Mary Open Doors to get back up on her feet. She feels that she did not only get back on her feet, but is now flying.

Ms. Carmen never forgot Mary Open Doors or where she came from. Like a potter taking a slab of clay and making it into a beautiful vase, she took her experience and turn it into something good. This remarkable woman puts her best efforts working as an advocate for women and children at Mary Open Doors.

Since Ms. Carmen's official employment with the organization in January 2012, she works tirelessly to support the founder of Mary Open Doors. Her life revolves around helping victims of domestic violence and abuse that seek help at the organization. She works non-stop as an assistant in the day and a shelter supervisor in the night for Mary Open Doors.

Ms. Carmen is not only a social service worker for the clients; she is also a friend, councilor and comforter. She doesn't consider her services as a job, she considers it a blessing. It is a blessing to the clients that seek out help and leave knowing that that there is light at the end of the tunnel.

Glenda Francis was born in Corozal Town on November 6th 1944. She was the second child of a family of nine and from a tender age helped her mother to make ends meet. As a child going to primary school, she recalls having to sell during recess homemade sweets and puddings.

In 1959, St. Francis Xavier Primary School teachers offered her a scholarship to attend Xavier College in Corozal which she embraced enthusiastically. With support of her parents, she received a High School Diploma in 1963. In 1970, she entered the teaching profession and later attended the Belize Teacher's College, where she received her Trained Teachers Certificate. She also held the post of principal at the St. Francis Xavier School Infant Division, a post she held for seven years.

After retiring from the teaching profession, Ms. Francis believed she could still give much more to her community and people of Corozal District so she joined the Help Age Corozal. As a member of Help Age, she empowers the elderly by providing services and an environment that enables them to achieve ageing with dignity. She is also serving as an interpreter for the voluntary medical teams from abroad that visit villages in Corozal District, providing communities with free medications and check-ups.

As a Communion Minister, she visits shut-ins for elderly and other sick people, she takes communion to them, prays and listens to them and gives them words of encouragement and also provide them with food packages. She strongly believes in this year's theme for the elderly "seniors are the foundation of our nation".

Mrs. Victoria Hernandez was born on November 17, 1957 to Eliberto Escalante and Claudia Talango in Orange Walk Town, Orange Walk District. She was the youngest of seven children, 5 daughters and 2 sons. She married Francisco Ramon Hernandez on September 15th, 1976 and had 5 children, four girls and one boy.

Her community work began in 1994 when she became part of the first parent's committee at La Inmaculada Primary School and assisted in the construction of the school's cafeteria. In 1999, she was awarded the Mother's Day Award by the Orange Walk Town Board for her community service.

In 1994, she began working with the Community Parenting Program (COMPAR) in the Ministry of Human Development as a volunteer. She has attended numerous training to prepare her for the work she engaged in including various parenting, child abuse and juvenile issues

She also worked with NEMO when needed and was always the first to volunteer even if it was to pack and distribute food to those who needed it. Her work with the Ministry of Human Development also included helping with the community service program for first time offenders and was part of the District Coalition Group. She has also worked with NOPCAN, Human Rights Commission of Belize and National Aids Commission. She has also served as an assistant chairlady and chairlady to VOICE since 2010. She provided input to the "Situational Analysis of Older Persons in Belize and to Mrs. Yvette Torres from Banquitas House of Culture in developing a DVD showcasing older persons from Orange Walk Town.

"Ms Vicky" as she is affectionately known. She continues volunteering even now at her 55 years of age in other areas such as the Charismatic Group, Liturgy Committee and Santa Anna Religious group at La Inmaculada Parish in Orange Walk Town. She dedicates her time to visiting the sick, shut ins and doing spiritual works.

Mrs. Sandra Garrett is a loving and cheerful source of motivation and support for others. When she is not making decisions as a member of Help Age Dangriga, she may be found making a birthday cake for one of the seniors or telling them funny stories.

In her own way special way, Ms. Sandra has touched the lives of many. Each day of the week there is always something for her to do or someone to help. She is an active member of Sacred Heart Church and is always present at church functions and always willing to offer prayers for those who need them. Ms Sandra is also a skilled craftsperson; she makes creative gifts to brighten someone's day. Or, she may give one of her lovely wreaths which is always a source of comfort to grieving families

One of Ms. Sandra's most outstanding virtues is the gift of time that she generously gives to others. As a very active member of Stann Creek Palliative Care and Dangriga Cancer Society this lovely lady may spend her entire day visiting the sick; praying with their families and offering them her funny stories to lighten and brighten their day.

Others will tire and go home but Ms Sandra is tireless and she will go on from one home to the next. Her commitment to serving others is unflinching. Volunteerism is alive and well in Mrs. Sandra Garrett and for that we have chosen her to be Stann Creek's outstanding Woman.

The evolution of Maya women started way back in 1980's by a phenomenal leader, Micaela Wewe who actually opened the doors for Maya women's leadership and participation in social and economic development. Micaela's life story tells us that when she became a member of the Belize Rural Women's Association (BRWA), her husband was still alive and she was still in her child bearing age. Her husband was no exception to the rule of machismo, but these barriers did not stop Micaela from attending BRWA workshops and meetings all over the country and abroad. Micaela took her children with her to the meetings, even while they were breastfed. She also had to be accompanied by her husband, on occasions, who wanted to verify what she was really doing in those meetings. BRWA provided for her accommodations and meals and that of her children and husband if needed. Nonetheless, her hardships only fuelled her passion to learn new skills that would remove her from poverty and restriction of her own freedom.

Micaela is a role model for Maya women. Her leadership and determination evolved into several spectrums and proved that no circumstance can stop a woman from emancipation. Micaela is a professional craft maker; she was the first woman to make Maya baskets in commercial quantity and established a market for Maya craft in Belize City. She is a pioneer of the Toledo Maya Women's Council and a great Maya women leader.

Mrs. Imelda Velasquez has been teaching and encouraging the young women of YES since the early 2000's, when she began her weekly Bible studies at the YES Training Centre. Since then, she has faithfully provided our students with an hour of scripture teaching, spiritual guidance, and life lessons on Wednesday mornings. Both students and staff look forward to her studies, and her constant presence has greatly enriched our program.

Mrs. Velasquez began working with youth long before coming to YES. For over twenty-one years, she has been actively involved in children's ministries. She taught Bible Club and helped run the Vacation Bible School at Open Doors Believer's Chapel in Belize City. She then became involved with the same ministries at Bethany Chapel when her family moved to Burrell Boom. Her current Saturday Bible Club includes children not only from Bethany Chapel, but also from the entire Burrell Boom community.

Love for God and desire to see change in the lives of youth and children is what motivates her to continue in her service. She applies her same joy and dedication to her personal life, where she is the mother of four and recently celebrated her thirty-second wedding anniversary.

YES is truly indebted to Mrs. Velasquez for her support and involvement in our programs. Congratulations for a well deserved honor!

Myrna Manzanares was born in 1946 in Gales Point Manatee and was the only girl child for her mother. She grew up in a very large extended family in a small community.

Her close stitched community practiced all the Kriol traditions including such as jumping the Sambi, brammed during Christmas Season, spent nights telling stories and many more typical traditions. This sense of cultural togetherness became a part of her psyche from early childhood.

Myrna left Belize in 1965 to join her family who had migrated to the states after Hurricane Hattie, but she missed the freedom of her country and yearned for her home, Belize. In 1986 haunted by this longing, she returned home. She immediately became consumed with community involvement with cultural activities, storytelling, plays, Queen of the Bay pageant, promoting Kriol Games, 10th day Parade and many more.

Myrna soon invited people with similar interest to join forces and in 1995 the National Kriol Council was incorporated as a not for profit organization.

Her dream is to leave a legacy for Kriol children not to feel less than other cultures but to walk tall beside them as proud Belizeans. Anybody who is acquainted with Myrna can attest that she is a multifaceted, high energy, articulate, fun loving and truly a remarkable woman who has a genuine love and appreciation for family, culture, and people. She is a Woman of Culture.
