

TRANSFORMATION

STARTS WITH YOU

On a trip to Mexico City in 1998, Christel DeHaan quickly realized that impoverished children need more than clothes and food. They need tools to help them break the cycle of poverty. Later that year, the first Christel House learning center opened in Mexico City. The school, which serves 400 students in grades 1–9, has outgrown its urban campus. Soon, it will move to a new location with room for a much-needed high school. With your support, we can furnish classrooms, hire teachers and double our capacity to transform children's lives.

Yes, Christel

I'm interested in joining you. Please send me more information about the dedication visit to Mexico City.

Viva Christel House!

MORE SPACE. MORE IMPACT.

A NEW SCHOOL

When Jesus Morales completed 9th grade, there was no Christel House high school. But now, thanks to a generous donor, the school is growing—and moving to a new location. It will include a pre-first grade, a high school, and green space, including a soccer field and outdoor basketball courts.

The transition to the new school is a huge undertaking. The students need supplies, furniture and computers. They need new teachers, new technology, and someone to mow the grass they never had at the original school. You can help.

The new school will double the number of students we serve.
