We will hope to see less failures in the future.

In Rudravaram center, out of 32 children, 7 children achieved A Grade, 11 students were average with B and C Grades, and 4 children are below with D Grade. 11 children failed the examination so more support is needed for those children. Quarterly report April to June 2013

On 4th of May, Mr. Sagar with ARV team visited Danagudem village in Kaikalur Mandal as the villagers approached ARV to conduct a Supplemental Education center in their village.

Danagudem is a small village in Kaikalur Mandal, Krishna district, Andhra Pradesh, India. Total population of the village is 688. Majority of the population belong to socially-economically-culturally-politically discriminated, excluded and exploited social group of Dalits.

Major occupation for the villagers is agriculture which also depends on monsoons which provide around 90 days of work for agriculture laborers in a year. But, Dalits do not own agriculture land and depend on agriculture labor for livelihood. Since the agriculture labor work is for only 90 days in a year, the majority of the Dalits are below the poverty line. As the Krishna River flows on one side, Kolleru Lake is on the other side of the village, floods are common during monsoon. The village also lacks basic amenities like drinking water and sanitation.

There is one primary school in the village (up to 5th class). Children have to travel 2 kms if they want to pursue higher education every day. While the bus timings do not suit school timings, parents also cannot afford the cost of travel of their children because of poverty. Girl children further had to face additional problems in travelling daily if they want to pursue higher education. All these factors affect the children's learning in the school. In addition, children are also finding it difficult to learn mathematics, science and English language. Since most of the parents are also illiterate they are not able to monitor the progress of their children's education. Besides, they do not find time also due to their hard labor work. After observations from the interaction with parents and children, ARV selected Danagudem for implementing the Supplemental Educational Program to change the lives of children for a brighter future.

On 17th June 2013, ARV inaugurated Supplemental Education Program in Danagudem (Kaikalur Mandal). 250 members attended this program including 105 children. Some of the local leaders attended the program. They are very excited and felt very happy that ARV is conducting a very good program and they will give their support in sending the children regularly. Mr. Vijay Kumar of ARV explained about the program and it is useful for the children for their future. Mr. Chandar Rao (Local Leader) of that area told that, there are still so many children who are not attending and will motivate them to come to this child education program and make them to come regularly. They are very thankful to ARV that they are conducting a very meaningful program in our locality and we will give our support to them. Mr. Ananda Kumar, teacher of the Government school said that “it is fortunate for getting the children education center in our village and also ARV is encouraging us in our education. Really the children are wasting their time after school; this center will help the children to utilize their time in a meaningful way”. The parents also felt very happy and one of the parents Mrs. Buritigadda Rajamma told that, this program is a gift of God for our children and we are very thankful to ARV.

We appointed a volunteer Ms. B. Karuna. She is a B.Sc. Bed Graduate in Mathematics, and she told us that she will give the children her best and make the children more educated and try to make them to pass with good marks. ARV distributed school supplies to 105 children. After that we distributed some chocolates, sweets and biscuits for the children, parents, and for the leaders who attended the program. Children Supplementary Education program ensures that the students keep up with their studies so they can have more opportunities in the future.

On 19th June 2013, ARV team visited Kandrika (Vijayawada rural). ARV invited one of the Government teachers, Mr. B. Nireekshana Rao to the child education center. He said to the children that “it is a very good opportunity for all the children as a number of children are lacking so many facilities and not even having books, but with the help of ARV you are all getting books so utilize this opportunity and study well. He also requested ARV to organize a child supplementary educational center in their school. We distributed school supplies to 64 children and said that this will be a good opportunity for the children and hoped they will utilize this opportunity and study well.

On 8th June 2013 ARV visited Aasirvadapuram colony in Machilipatnam. It is growing as a town on the Bay of Bengal coastline and categorized as a special grade municipality. It is the District Administrative Head-Quarters of the Krishna district, Andhra Pradesh, India.

There are Yanadi colonies in Machilipatnam. Yanadis are one of the semi-nomadic tribes who used to live in the forest and have been forced out of the forests during the last 100 years. Their existence has been traced to Palaeolithic periods in the Nallamala forest of Andhra Pradesh in India. Their traditional knowledge of flora & fauna in the forest was used to gather food, medicines and other needs.

After they have been forced out of forest, they are trying to adapt to new lifestyles and learn new skills of survival. Literacy is one of the major problem now for Yanadis. In the modern welfare State, Yanadis are one of the neglected tribes among the numerous tribal communities in Andhra Pradesh. We are in the 21st century heading towards conquering space but our own brethren are still languishing without even common facilities like education, food and shelter. Their language is not useful in the towns and cities. Since they are nomadic, they do not feel that they belong to any particular region. For the same reason, they do not possess any assets like land or houses. The compulsory education policy has failed to make any dent in the Yanadis. The illiteracy rate is very high among them, and the main reason behind their backwardness.

There are 51 children studying in Government school, who needs more assistance in studies. When we enquired about their livelihood, the parents of the children are all below poverty line. They are all daily wage workers. They are all tribals. Their occupation is hunting animals such as birds, snakes and rats and also women will go for house work. They are unable to afford more on their studies. There is no school in this area. The children will go to Government school in Machilipatnam which is far from this area. The children are very poor in their education. Met the elders of the area and explained about ARV and Supplemental Education Program. They requested ARV to start a center in their area and help the children in their education. ARV appointed a volunteer Ms. D. Latha Kumari B.Sc Bed Graduate, and she told us that she will give the children her best, and make the children more educated and try to make them to pass with good marks and also that she will gather the children so they will attend.

On 24th June 2013, ARV inaugurated the Supplemental Education Program in Aasirvadapuram in Machilipatnam rural. Distributed school supplies to 51 children in this center.

Mr.Subba Rao father of a drop out child named Pamarthi Durga Prasad, approached ARV to help his child to join in school. ARV did counseling with boy and parents and admitted the child in Hyny High School in Machilipatnam and provided school supplies and school uniform. Now his family is so happy that he again joined in school and continuing his education.

On 25th June 2013, ARV team visited Perikeedu center. Distributed school supplies to 41 children and said that this will be a good opportunity for the children and hope they will utilize this opportunity and study well.
