

The garden of the “Escola Normal” school of Pintadas has been transformed into a small vegetable garden to produce a portion of the vegetables that are needed for the morning lunch of the children of the school. An additional three schools have a similar system today.

