CLAVES PROGRAMME

As part of Youth for Christ's community development work, with children and families, the CLAVES Program began in 1995.

This program looks to join efforts for the prevention of mistreatment and the promotion of fair and caring interactions within the culture.

The logo for the Claves program is located in the bottom right corner. It features the word "claves" in a lowercase, orange, sans-serif font. The text is positioned on a white, torn-edge paper graphic that appears to be peeling away from the orange background.

MISSION

Identify and promote capacities which strengthen a person in the face of violence and which promote fair and caring treatment of children and adolescents in distinct contexts.

VISION

Claves' vision is that each boy, girl and adolescent would enjoy a full life and be respected as someone with dignity and rights.

CONCEPTUAL FRAMEWORK

Without disregarding the structural and risk factors for violence, CLAVES has sought to identify and promote the factors that take into account the capacity of the individual to confront violence in various situations.

The underlying conceptual framework is influenced by:

- Christian anthropology
- Holistic health
- Children right's
- Gender inclusion
- Participation
- Resilience
- Preventive approach
- Play

CLAVES INTERVENES THROUGH

- Developing programs and teaching materials for work directly with children, adolescents, families and communities.
- Training leaders, teachers, and professionals.
- Methodological transfer and cultural adaptation for different regions
- Efforts for public awareness and open up spaces for youth and adolescent participation
- Biblical /theological reflection
- Taking part in national and international networks
- Public policy advocacy
- Institutional counseling
- Volunteering program

Background

Annually CLAVES hold two public awareness campaigns carried out by teenagers and young people from various organizations, who are trained as promoters of fair and caring interactions:

A DEAL FOR IDEAL INTERACTIONS Campaign

COUNTRY OF FAIR AND CARING INTERACTIONS Campaign

The logo for CLAVES is displayed on a white, torn-edge paper background that is curled up at the top left. The word "claves" is written in a lowercase, sans-serif font, with the letters "c", "l", "a", and "v" in orange and the letters "e", "s", and "e" in white.

“A Deal for Ideal Interactions” Campaign

Public awareness campaign carried out by adolescents from various organizations, who are trained to promote care and respectful consideration of one another.

This initiative began in 2003 in Uruguay and has been shared with 13 countries in Latin America and the Caribbean, with the participation of thousands of trained teenagers and educators.

TRAINING:

The training is based on the manual “Manos al buentrato: adolescentes educando” (Hands for Fair and Caring Interactions: Adolescents Teaching) and “Derecho al Buentrato” (Right for Fair and Caring interactions).

PUBLIC AWARENESS CAMPAIGN:

Through creative activities, adolescents capture adult's attention, and challenge them to be symbolically "vaccinated" against violence towards children and adolescents.

They invite all to commit to bringing about a culture of care and respectful consideration of one another through concrete actions such as listening, believing, and protecting children and adolescents, as well as reporting all forms of violence.

COUNTRY OF FAIR AND CARING INTERACTIONS Campaign

Through a symbolic passport, young promoters of fair and caring interactions welcome tourists to a country that protect children and adolescents, and invite them to report sexual exploitation against them.

Spots, brochures, maps, posters and other communication tools help spreading the message and prevent sexual exploitation.

claves

BUENTRATO EN RED (Fair and caring interactions Network).

The project aims to expand and strengthen the campaigns implemented in 14 countries in Latin America and the Caribbean by building a regional network.

The initiative promotes a Fair and Caring interactions culture, as a regional approach to a common problem: mistreatment of children and adolescents.

The network will promote the exchange of experiences, training and the elaboration of teaching tools.

It will also facilitate the development of a common work agenda, and give its members a greater capacity for advocacy in favor of children and adolescents.
