POWERFUL PROJECTS

CHANGING LIVES FOREVER

JustWorld
International acts as a catalyst for positive change in the developing world by working with local partner organizations to provide basic education, nutrition, health, hygiene and vocational programs for children with little opportunity to receive support from other sources.

Through the international equestrian community, JustWorld funds and sustains these 'basic needs' programs for children in impoverished communities in Cambodia, Guatemala and Honduras. JustWorld International's Rider Ambassadors help to raise awareness and funds for these programs. JustWorld supporters learn about the needs of others across the globe as they give thousands of children a leg up to a brighter future.

HOW WE MAKE A DIFFERENCE

JustWorld's approach to fighting poverty means we don't focus on only one area of need. Through our partnerships with grassroots organizations in developing countries, we support education, nutrition, health and hygiene programs for over 6,000 vulnerable children. This combined effort allows these children the basic building blocks they need to succeed.

Cambodia

In Cambodia, JustWorld partners with the People Improvement Organization (PIO) and its director and CNN Hero Finalist, Phymean Noun. At PIO, JustWorld has funded the construction of and supports the operational costs for two schools: Stung Mean Chey at a municipal garbage dump and Borey Keila in an urban slum.

These schools provide comprehensive learning and support programs that:

- Educate 800 children through a formal primary school curriculum.
- Give school uniforms to all students.
- Maintain a health program – including a school nurse, stock of basic medicine, hygiene supplies, oral care, HIV testing and treatment and regular workshops that teach proper hygiene and sanitation.
- Provide a wholesome and nutritious lunch and snack for the children.
- Deliver bags of rice to families (42,000 kg per year) to encourage parents to keep their kids in school.
- Provide skills and vocational training for young people to help them obtain future employment.
- Supply 20,000 families with mosquito nets to protect them from deadly diseases such as malaria and typhoid.

Guatemala

Since 2008, JustWorld has been working with local organization, Los Patojos, to address both the education and well-being of nearly 200 children in Jocotenango, Guatemala.

The Los Patojos program encompasses:

- An education program that provides tutoring, scholarships and educational support to local children who are otherwise left to the dangerous streets of Jocotenango.
- A cultural center that fosters the creative talents of children through singing, dancing, playing musical instruments, theater and breakdancing.
- A meal program which supplies daily lunches for the children and for many of their families. Too often, this provides their only meal of the day.
- A medical clinic that brings in a doctor twice a week to visit the children and their families, without which they would have no access to healthcare.

JustWorld and Los Patojos have recently broken ground for a new charter school. The school will host more than 300 children, providing them with three meals per day, access to a full-time, on-site medical clinic, vocational training and a community cultural center.

Honduras

In Honduras, JustWorld works with our partner, Compartir, to provide children with educational support and materials that their families could not otherwise afford.

Our joint mobile library project:

- Brings educational and cultural activities to thousands of children in three slum areas near Tegucigalpa, the Honduran capital.
- Encourages youth literacy and social integration while providing access to books, a reading program, scholastic support, educational supplies and nutritious snacks.
- Provides access to book clubs, innovative community libraries and "on foot" libraries.
- Allows vulnerable children the chance to spend quality time together with a dedicated team of educators and volunteers in a safe environment.
