Safe Water and Sanitation Development in Vietnam

Access to safe water and education changes lives. Join MEDRIX to make a difference.

MEDRIX Resource Development Promotes Sustainability

Access to safe and clean water in schools in Vietnam is extremely limited. MEDRIX addresses this issue by providing water filtration systems, hand washing stations, and hygiene education to create a sustainable future for the next generation.

MEDRIX has been working on safe water projects in Vietnam since the late 1990s. MEDRIX donors and partners work together to sponsor water filtration systems and hand washing stations in rural schools and health clinics. Once the systems are installed, local officials take over to ensure they remain in good working order so the project benefits continue far into the future. The installation of the hardware is combined with education in sanitation, proper hygiene and oral care to prevent the spread of communicable waterborne and gastro-intestinal diseases and illnesses. Education workshops are led by highly qualified educators from the Center for Preventative Medicine of TT Hue Province.

MEDRIX Values Include:

- Identifying Real Community Needs-
- Discovering Real Solutions through Collaboration-
- Sharing Resources-
- Exchanging Knowledge-
- Project Sustainability-
- Offering Hope-

MEDRIX provides educational materials to preschool teachers and community leaders to teach proper hygiene, hand washing and food safety in rural villages.

In partnership with Westcoast International Dental Clinic, MEDRIX also annually donates toothbrushes and toothpaste to kids who need it the most.
