"Educating 200 Rural Poor Girls in Rajasthan, India" (1)

Project Summary

Bal Sansar Sanstha (BSS) plans to

1. provide quality primary education to 200 girls from the rural poor families, most parents are daily wage laborers
2. building school infrastructure (i.e. 6 classrooms, library, 1 computer Lab, 4 toilets for the girls) to provide standard school amenities to these girls in Ajmer, Rajasthan, India, allowing girls to postpone their age of marriage, not to get pushed into child-labor, rise out of poverty, providing their families' health & well-being.

Bal Sansar Public School aims to:

- ✓ provide quality pre & primary education to rural children in Ajmer district; gradually to upgrade up to elementary & then senior secondary levels.
- ✓ our pre-school education is a school readiness programme with development of multiple intelligences of children with age appropriate physical and life-skill activities, cognitive training of senses and creativity of children.
- ✓ BSPS will attempts to provide culturally sensitive, environment friendly quality education leading to all-round development opportunities to its students (who mostly come from economically weaker section and many are even first generation learners in their families).

Kindly donate generously!

We appeal to the people who believe in supporting children through the life changing gift i.e. education,

The issue, problem, or challenge (3)

- Big rural urban & gender divide deprives girls; access, retention & quality of education are key concerns;
- Female literacy rate in Rajasthan 24.44% (1991) 43.9% (2001) 52.66% (2011) far below to national rates & the goal of Education for All;
- Girls not attending schools regularly;
- low value given to the girl child, child marriage & child labor prevails.
- Drop-out rates are high at secondary level, at elementary level 7.06 and at secondary level 31.48 (2010-11).
- Also, there are resource constraints

How will this project solve this problem (4)

Bal Sansar Public School will ensure

- community & parent contact and counseling ensuring families give due importance to education of girls;
- quality of teaching & learning;
- teacher sensitization;
- creating girls' friendly school;
- safe transportation;
- life-skill program, inclusion of health & hygiene issues;

all these will enhance confidence level of girls (their parents as well), ensuring that they stay in school, not pushed in to child marriage, child labor & continue their education, leading quality life

Project Status (5)

BSPS started with just four; today a full-fledged English medium primary school caters to 117 students in Ajmer, Rajasthan, India.

The growing enrolment is a testimony of quality teaching, appreciated by the students and parents. Requested donations will help accommodating 200 girls by new session.
