Principal's remarks

Francine has made slight progress in her work this term. However, this is still below her ability. She has the potential and will need to direct most of her school hours towards her academic work. She should aim at getting above 80% in all her subjects.

Grading systems:

The five highest subject scores from each student is the basis of the scoring system for the Zambian national examinations (ECZ), administered at the end of Grade 12. This grading system is the basis for admission at Zambian universities. The GCE grading system is an international testing system administered through the University of Cambridge (UK). The GCE scoring system is also included as a comparison to the ECZ grading system. The GCE usually consider the best six subjects.
