Aid for refugees

The United Nations Refugee Agency estimates that there are more than 60 million displaced people worldwide. The number of people seeking protection in Germany is higher than ever before. In 2012 more than 65,000 people applied for asylum. Over 800,000 applications are expected by the end of 2015.

The Tafel in Germany are open to refugees and support them with fast emergency aid and sustainable integration projects. The Tafel are there for all people who need help. In addition to the refugee camps, the Tafel are one of the first places in Germany that incoming refugees go to for help. To meet this challenge, we need your support!

Help us with your donation to help others!

Here is what we do:

- More than 920 Tafel in Germany collect food for more than 3.000 distribution sites.
- Already 150,000 refugees come to the Tafel for help
- Refugees are not isolated at the Tafel. We work to reduce prejudice, strengthen integration and dialogue.
- The Tafel are a contact point for refugees to access further counseling options.
- Many special projects in addition to immediate aid: clothing, bicycles, German lessons, escorting to various municipal authorities.
- Integration of refugees in volunteer structures.

- Projects aimed at integration and understanding, for example, community cafes, cooking evenings with refugees and Germans, during which everyone can share their experiences.

How your donation helps:

- Increasing numbers of patrons means more work and the need for more space and commitment. Your donation helps us not to have to turn away people in acute need.
- We support and train our volunteers for the special challenges presented by refugees
- You make projects possible that go above and beyond the distribution of food: cooking courses, community cafés, clothing donations, anti-racism projects and collection points for household goods or bicycles.

If you would like to support the Tafel:

Many Tafel are also in need of more grocery items. If you would like to donate food to the Tafel near you, please check with them and ask what is needed.

If you have larger volumes (more than 33 pallets), the National Association of German Tafel can take over the distribution:
