- In special consultative status with the United Nations Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC) since 1947.
- In official relations with the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) and the International Labour Organization.
- Member of the Disarmament and Non-Proliferation (DNP) Education Partnership.

A group of young women are gathered around a smartphone, looking at the screen with interest. One woman in the foreground has red sunglasses perched on her head. The background is slightly blurred, showing other people in a social setting.

HOW DO I JOIN?

For information on how to join GWI visit: <http://www.graduatewomen.org/take-action/become-a-member>. Membership is through our national federations and associations, where you can participate on a national, regional and international level, in your areas of interest. Independent membership is available if you are based in a country where we do not have a national affiliate.

If you have any questions about GWI membership and services please contact us.

"GWI is very important as I can meet members from other countries and professions. I learn a lot. After participating in a regional workshop I felt much more involved and connected with other members, and together we will make positive changes for women."
