

Coprodeli USA

Since 2000, Coprodeli's mission has been to contribute to the development of establishing a dignified life for the poorest populations of the regions of Callao, Ica, and San Martin in Peru.

Coprodeli USA's mission is to support, through annual financial and volunteer assistance, the grassroots development work carried out by Coprodeli Peru.

Coprodeli Peru offers a variety of outreach programs to over 700 children and teenagers who live in abusive or otherwise detrimental environments.

The outreach program this campaign is focusing on is Coprodeli's Children at High Risk program.

This program helps children that come from the most troubling economic circumstances and are unable to pay even the smallest amount to Coprodeli for its full plate of support. The majority of the children in this program come from homes with interfamilial violence, absent or neglectful parents, to being one of the poorest of the poor.

In order to carry out this program Coprodeli has implemented CAE's (External Outreach Centers). It's in these centers where Coprodeli provides the youngest community members:

- a safe place to attend afterschool
- tutors to help them with their homework
- psychologist to provide much needed emotional support
- music workshops
- sports activities
- a nutritious meal which some may not receive at home

Since the inception of many of our outreach centers, the majority have been working with the little they have, but there comes a time where they need to be updated and provide decent conditions to the children that attend them their day in and day out.

This project aims to do to just that, we plan on renovating the conditions of our outreach centers so they can be up to code with minimal safety conditions, in adequate health standards and a proper secured environment.

Our outreach center have provide good for so many children at high risk that It's time to provide for them for a change.
