

Project Summary

This project offer dignity pack (contain sanitary pads, lotion, soap, pants, and lesa) to 100 adolescents who are orphaned and vulnerable or whose guardians are unable to provide in order to keep them in primary schools in Mathare slums, Kenya.

Challenge

Geographical the project located in Nairobi, one of the largest slums in Kenya with over 800,000 people living in crowded place. Increasing poverty, unemployment, high population growth rate, HIV/AIDS, ethnic violence and low access to information pose threats to life of people including adolescent girls. Adolescent girls in Mathare slum have poor academic performance than their counterpart's boys due to their high school absenteeism and school drop-outs resulting from poor menstruation hygiene management including menstruation care products and child labor. This project offers a solution to adolescent girls for continuous school attendance for improvement in academic performance.

Solution

The project provides orphans and vulnerable adolescent girls in schools age 10-15 years with sanitary menstrual care products; two packs of sanitary pads, a small lotion, a piece of soap, 3 pairs of pants, a lesa (Kanga in Swahili language), of a pair of school uniforms safe and hygiene disposal facilities to primary school provision per term in primary schools.

Long-Term Impact

Reduced incidence of risky, shame and school absenteeism, increased school attendance, improved academic performance, high completion rates, high transition rates and increased literacy levels among adolescent girls.
