The Problem

Rural communities in Nepal abandon orphans because of a deep-rooted cultural belief that children become orphans because of their own bad karma. Orphans are forced to survive not only harsh physical conditions but also the mental anguish of believing their condition is their own fault.

Orphans are also easy and common targets for human traffickers who trick or force approximately 20,000 women and girls each year into horrific conditions such as bondage or being child brides in neighboring countries.

The Solution

The Small World's Himalayan Hope Home provides orphaned girls with safe living conditions, nutritious food, medical care, educational opportunities, and the parental love and care that every single child deserves.

The nurturing living conditions and access to education provided by Hope Home enables the 30 girls living there to become self-sufficient and a positive impact on society.

By learning skills that qualify them for jobs in teaching, health care, and business, the girls are able to uplift their village communities as well as provide the leadership to finally change the old belief systems that neglected them.

Future Leaders

In addition to the essential core support provided by Hope Home, we are proud to announce the successful start of a powerful new initiative called Future Leaders that is incredibly popular with the girls. With our guidance, they have organized and manage four activity clubs (Green club, Academic club, Music and Dance club, and Art and Craft club) through which they expand and strengthen their leadership and decision-making skills outside the classroom.
