1.0 INTRODUCTION

This report covers the activities implemented under the above-mentioned project during the period under review, from May 2026 to September 2026, in Margibi County, Liberia.

The report highlights the key activities carried out, achievements recorded, challenges encountered, recommendations, and conclusions from the implementation period. It focuses on the following activities:

- Learning Squared Back-to-School Book Ride Campaign
- Tuition Payment Support for Beneficiaries
- Recommendations and Conclusion

2.0 ACHIEVEMENTS FOR THE PERIOD UNDER REVIEW

2.1 Learning Squared Back-to-School Book Ride Campaign

During the period under review, Learning Squared implemented key activities aimed at supporting education and improving the well-being of beneficiaries in Margibi County, Liberia.

One of the major achievements was the successful implementation of the Learning Squared Back-to-School Book Ride Campaign. As part of this initiative, 200 all-subject reading books were distributed to students at Muja International School. The distribution was intended to provide students with essential learning materials to support their education and improve access to reading resources as they prepared for the academic year.

The successful implementation of this activity contributed to improving students' access to basic educational materials and supporting their learning and academic development. It also strengthened Learning Squared's engagement and collaboration with schools, communities, students, and other beneficiaries.

2.2 Tuition Payment Support for Beneficiaries

Learning Squared successfully extended financial support to help ensure continued access to education for children whose parents were selected to participate in the Microfinance Program.

Recognizing the close link between education and economic empowerment, the organization provided tuition support to help ease the financial burden on participating families and ensure that their children could continue their education. Many of the supported families face economic challenges, making this intervention important in preventing interruptions in their children's education. By covering part of the tuition costs, Learning Squared helped these students remain in school, focus on their studies, and continue building a strong foundation for a brighter future.

The activity also demonstrated strong community engagement and accountability, as all 20 parents were present during the tuition payment support activity. Their participation reflected their commitment to their children's education and their appreciation for the support provided through the program.

3.0 RECOMMENDATIONS, CONCLUSION, AND CALL FOR SUPPORT

3.1 Recommendations

Based on the activities implemented during the reporting period, it is recommended that Learning Squared:

1. Continue and expand educational support for vulnerable children and families.
2. Increase the provision of educational materials, including reading books and other essential learning resources.
3. Continue tuition assistance to help reduce financial barriers that prevent children from remaining in school.
4. Strengthen collaboration with schools and communities to identify beneficiaries and ensure that educational support reaches those most in need.

3.2 Conclusion

In conclusion, the activities implemented from May 2026 to September 2026 successfully contributed to supporting children's education and improving the well-being of beneficiary families in Margibi County, Liberia. Learning Squared respectfully calls on donors, partners, schools, community leaders, and other stakeholders to support its ongoing efforts to promote education and economic empowerment in Margibi County, Liberia.

Learning Squared welcomes partnerships with individuals, organizations, and institutions that share its commitment to improving educational opportunities and strengthening the well-being of families and communities.
