Chair’s Report:

Reflecting on the last year, it is once again extremely pleasing to be able to say with complete confidence (thanks to our rigorous monitoring and evaluation programme) that FtL’s work continues to make a tangible and positive contribution to the education and lives of some of the most disadvantaged young people in Nepal and India. For a relatively small charity we continue to develop a reputation for extremely high quality work, delivered in a cost effective and collaborative way: and great credit and thanks must go to our relatively small team of professional and extremely hardworking staff and volunteers in Nepal and the UK.

As a conscientious and ambitious organisation we continue to want to improve our work practices and structures in order to increase our support for the young people we work with, and once again we have made significant progress in several areas. The development of our innovative and holistic approach to education has been further refined and improved, and pleasingly the effectiveness of our methods has led to other organisations seeking advice from us on good practice. We are further developing our Sister Schools programme here in the UK, and we hope over the next year this could be an important source of income. As with all charities the pressure of developing a diverse and sustainable funding model is acutely important, and it is satisfying to report that we have also made some progress in this area over the last year. Whilst once again we are significantly indebted to the ERSF for their support and encouragement for our work, a much greater percentage of income came from new funding sources, both individuals and foundations and has more so into 2017/8. We are extremely grateful to all our supporters, and as our accounts clearly demonstrate we can guarantee them that their donations are used carefully and with no excess costs.

In summary, it has been another highly successful year for FtL. We look forward in the coming year to continuing to support the schools and organisations we have been working with in Nepal, India and the UK, and helping give more young people the opportunity of a high quality education and the start in life every young person deserves.

Financial Review and Reserves Policy

Freedom to Learn currently has no outstanding debts or capital.

We keep enough reserves to enable us to ensure that we meet our existing obligations to pay the staff who run our existing programmes for a minimum of 3 months, including the most essential materials.

Most of our income and expenditure is through project funding, and is therefore pre-allocated to specific costs. We are very careful as trustees not to commit to future expenditure that we cannot afford, and for the coming financial year we foresee no problems.

The Trustees have signed off this year’s Financial Statement. It is has been independently checked in line with regulations for charities with an income of over £25,000 ready for filing with The Charity Commission by 30th April 2018:
Freedom to Learn
Independent Examiner’s Report to the Trustees

I report on the accounts of the charity, Freedom to Learn, for the year ended 30th June 2017, as set out in this report.

Respective Responsibilities of the Trustees and Examiner
The charity’s Trustees are responsible for the preparation of accounts. They consider that an audit is not required for this year (under Section 43 (2) of the Charities Act 1993) and that instead an independent examination is needed.

It is my responsibility to:
- Examine the accounts (under Section 43 (3) (a) of the 1993 Act;
- To follow the procedures laid down in the General Directions given by the Charity Commissioners (under Section 43 (7) (b) of the 1993 Act); and
- To state whether particular matters have come to my attention.

Basis of Independent Examiner’s Report
My examination was carried out in accordance with the General Directions given by the Charity Commissioners. An examination includes a review of the accounting records kept by Freedom to Learn and a comparison of the accounts presented with those records. It also includes a consideration of any unusual items or disclosures in the accounts, and seeking explanations from you as Trustees concerning any such matters. The procedures undertaken do not provide all the evidence that would be required in an audit, and consequently, I do not express an audit opinion on the view given by the accounts.

Independent Examiner’s Statement
In connection with my examination, no matter has come to my attention:

1. Which gives me reasonable cause to believe that in any material respect the following requirements have not been met:
   - to keep accounting records in accordance with Section 41 of the 1993 Act;
   - to prepare accounts which accord with the accounting records and comply with the accounting requirements of the 1993 Act.

or;

2. To which, in my opinion, attention should be drawn in order to reach a proper understanding of the accounts.

Governance, Organisational Structure and Trustees

Freedom to Learn is run in accordance with our Memorandum of Articles and Association and, as a small organisation, all our trustees play a very active and vital role in the running of the charity.

Dr Felicity Gabbay moved on to a medical charity in January of 2017 and Dr Mark Cristian Owen, Director of the Winchester Centre of Reconciliation and Peace, was elected Chair. We still are lucky enough to draw on the expertise of John Vallis, in clean water and sanitation; Nick Rigby and Sion Easthope in building and engineering; Tamsyn Beach a local Book Keeper and business owner.

Trustees are elected by existing trustees on the basis of a majority vote. The Chair of the trustees is elected by a majority, and rotation of positions is done in line with our Articles.

New trustees are given training and information on their legal obligations as a charity trustee, and are strongly encouraged to attend external training where possible.

Our day to day operations are run by our UK based Project Manager. We also currently employ a Nepal based Project Manager. Both are self-employed and invoice us on a monthly basis dependent on project funding. We have secured funds for a Social Media Manager who will be working four hours a week from January 2018.

Signed:

Dr Mark Owen
Chair of Trustees

Mrs Tamsyn Beach
Treasurer.
