HUMAN HEALTH PROJECT™

Our Mission

The Human Health Project (HHP) mission is comprised of three pillars: peer-to-peer information, education and support. Our objective is to empower people to manage their own health.

HHP

The Problem

When facing a difficult health situation, we need information, education, and support.

- We need accurate, unbiased, user-friendly information to best deal with our health issues

- We need access to education to be able to better understand and manage our conditions and how our healthcare system works (locally)

- We need support when we are vulnerable, to be shown the way and be advocated for, to be heard and know our rights and all our treatment options

The Solution

Information, education, and support for individuals and health organisations.

- Peer-Led Patient Navigation & Advocacy – Provided on and offline in local cities, in partnership with local community health organisations

- Real World Data – Survey data searchable by treatments and symptoms with data integrated to all HHP programmes

- Education – Courses and learning modules available on and offline and through local meet ups

- IMPACT programme – Partnerships with health organisations providing patient navigation & advocacy supported by HHP infrastructure

Here's What it Looks Like

We are self-managing our health from a position of knowledge and support.

Peer-Led Patient Navigation & Advocacy

- Peer Navigation

- Peer-Led Patient Advocacy

- Online & In-person

- Partnerships with local community health organisations

HHP provides access to a supportive peer-to-peer community that shares knowledge without a commercial agenda and is available from anywhere in the world via mobile/web app.
