WHO WE ARE

Teach For Pakistan is a national movement to end educational inequity in Pakistan. We are a partner in the Teach For All global network of 50+ independent, local organizations.

WHY WE EXIST

Education in Pakistan is a series of broken promises.

23 million children remain out of school
50% of all fifth graders can't read or compute at a 2nd grade level*

With the power of our most talented young people, we can change this and bring equity and excellence back to our education system.

WHAT WE DO

We recruit inspired university graduates to a two-year Fellowship to teach full-time in government schools in low-income communities.

In the short-term, Fellows boost students' academic and social skills, engage parents and improve school-wide culture and practices.

In the long-term, Alumni use the leadership and motivation they have developed to work effectively towards education reform.

- On average, student learning grows by 1 academic year in six months in a Fellow's classroom
- Fellow-supported schools report increased attendance, retention and school staff capacity
- Over 70% of Alumni pursue careers to end educational inequity, including by re-writing govt textbooks, supporting teacher-related reform, enabling thriving schools, and developing ed-tech solutions
