M E S S A G E

I am very pleased to learn of the excellent work the Rajkot Voluntary Blood Bank & Research Centre is doing to promote health and medical services in India. There is, sadly, a great shortage of blood banks and associated facilities in our country, especially for the poor and under-privileged. The Centre's own work and its efforts to encourage similar facilities elsewhere deserve wide support especially in the field of blood donation and Thalassaemia awareness, I urge all those who can to contribute to this cause, and send my best wishes to the Centre for greater success in its work in the future.

distribution of blood and blood products. This accumulation includes compliance with the SARI standards, applicable laws and regulations including guidelines set by National AIDS Control Organisation (NACO), Food & Drug Cosmetic Act and Rules (FDCA) and compliance with the international standards.

The RVHD & BC has until now organized above 2700 blood collection camps and with the help of collected blood, served more than 2,70,000 lives. Moreover, it has created a milestone by providing more than 4,00,000 units of blood and blood components to the hospitals across Saurashtra region and Gujarat state in three years.

We thank and salute our leaders, members, donors, patients, clinicians, partners and well-wishers for their relentless support and trusting RVHD & BC for the quality of blood and service with a difference!

We gratefully acknowledge the generosity and goodwill of everyone in our pursuit of excellence!

Dear Readers,

The gift of blood is the gift of life. As we all know, there is no replacement for human blood.

According to World Health Organization (WHO), a minimum stock of 1% of the country's population would be genetically collectors for the country to meet the basic requirements for safe blood donation. This means that India needs a minimum of 1.2 crore units of blood per year. In actual fact, it was much more, and only only 30 lakh units are collected annually. Every one repeatedly mentions it is need of blood. The only solution to this enormous crisis is spreading awareness to society about donating blood.

"The dialogue needed to end blood crisis just walks-in and give blood." - Project Life

To highlight blood giving activities in our country, a number of unique slogans in various languages were written, edited and accumulated by Project Life and were also got printed in book form for generating awareness in our society. This might be the first time that slogans were written for the purpose of raising awareness of the individual and showing citizens - donating blood.

"Do the best or nothing. Give blood and save life." - Project Life.

We all know that every single drop of blood is significant in saving a human life. Similarly, every single slogan in this book, if it results in encouraging one more blood donor, our goal will be achieved.

"The blood given are the ultimate life-saving." - Project Life.

In our country, there is a huge gap between demand and quality blood availability, mainly due to awareness. In developed countries the rate of blood donation per year is 30 per 1000 persons and in India it

Dear Chandrakantji,

This is to acknowledge your letter of 29 September, 2001, the contents of which I have read.

We often must have already informed you of my inability to meet you today as requested due to prior engagements.

As regards meeting the US delegate Mr. Frank Pallone during the 19th and 20th November, 2001, I have to inform you of both feasibility and my inability to do so since we are scheduled to be out of the country during that period.

more 10 per 1000 persons. Besides, quality blood is easily available in developed countries and hence during an emergency a life can be saved. In India this is totally lacking - all due to lack of enough awareness.

Let's hope we can change the situation here in our country and create an awareness about awareness and finally to donate blood! According to World Bank reports, 84.8% of the Indian population are the youth and it is my fervent hope that these awareness slogans help in awakening them throughout our country to ensure that our efforts are a success.
