DID YOU KNOW?

At least 1 in 5 children in India cannot learn because they're hungry. But Responsetnet is developing solutions to change that. With your support, we provide food to over 17,000 children in non-formal schools across India every day.

THANKS TO OUR PARTNERS, WE ARE ACHIEVING SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOAL OF ZERO HUNGER IN INDIA

Hunger in India is often hidden or misunderstood. By lending their hands to the fight against hunger, Responsenet's partners shed light on the issue. They help raise awareness of childhood hunger and generate vital support that helps us feed children in need across the country.

Rupanjali, 12

At 12 years old, Rupanjali is determined, bold and dreaming sky-high. She wants to become an Air Hostess when she grows up. In spite of everyday challenges and family problems, she wants to turn her dreams into reality. With supporters on her side, she is able to find hope for a better future.

"The food is tasty, the school materials are good, the teachers explain things well, the classes are fun and I am learning more," said Rupanjali.

AND THEIR DREAMS

Vansh, 13

13-year old Vansh says, "I'm now studying hard to ensure that I pass with flying colors and enroll in a good university. The meals at school are helping me greatly to be healthy and engage in physical activities such as cricket and football. I want to be fit so that when I'm big I can become a a police officer."

He has hope for a brighter future, which keeps him in school and learning. And many more, like Vansh, feel the same.

CONCLUSION

Because of you, Responsenet helps replace hungry stomachs with hunger for education. Children reach out to non-formal schools supported by our feeding programs when they face difficult circumstances—such as living in extreme poverty or devastating natural disasters—and they receive the nourishing meals they need to move forward. Between the Cyclone Fani and the flooding in Assam, many households turned to Responsenet in recent months. And compassionate supporters like you have enabled us to meet their needs.

Thanks to you we are able to position ourselves to give even more children what they deserve - a happier & brighter future.

Responsenet along with over 230 private sector partners and 70,000 volunteers engaged are significantly improving the nutrition and literacy levels of poor vulnerable children in rural and urban communities across India. Our holistic approach helps create the opportunity for children to learn, play and thrive who would otherwise be deprived and to create the freedom for the most vulnerable children to aspire as far as their dreams can take them for a better future. Our programs are permissible Activities which may be included in Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) as per Section 135, Schedule VII.
