Assam Floods Ravage Millions of Lives

Learning Links Foundation

Summary:

Assam, a small state located in northeast India is reeling under devastating floods. More than 3 million have been affected in around 25 districts. Hundreds of villages have been inundated with several families taking shelter at the public facilities, schools and community halls. Normalcy needs to be restored at the earliest, with several millions still struggling for basic necessities including food, water, medicine and shelter.

Problem:

Assam has been inundated for more than a week now. Several hectares of farmlands have been underwater, with more than 1000 houses damaged. Over 1 million animals, including livestock have been severely affected. Infrastructure, roads, bridges and transport has taken a massive hit. It has claimed 170 lives so far and it continues to adversely affect the millions of people who live there. With the water inundation crippling normal life, citizens scramble to find food, shelter and safety.

Solution:

We tend to provide temporary shelter and food packets to homeless and displaced people in cyclone affected districts. First aid along with Nutritious food and clean drinking water is being made accessible to those people. Clothes, shoes and utensils are to be provided, to restart the normal routine. We require your indulgent support to help the survivors.

Budget Breakdown:

Milk & Medicine	Blanket & Bedsheet	Water & Food Packet	Health Care Needs	Disaster Relief & Recovery
$15 USD	$25 USD	$30 USD	$500 USD	$6000 USD

Long- Term Impact:

The support provided to affected people will encourage them to regain their normal lives. Health check-ups will be conducted on timely basis to ensure good health of people. Better accommodation facilities for people will be explored. Eventually people will start leading a sustained life.
