Masoro Village:
March 2021

For Cyaruzine villagers, visiting Masoro is a window ten years back in time: Calling the people of Masoro a village is akin to calling a group of people without a preacher or building a church. What the people of Masoro have is community with each other.

In mid-January of 2021 a call came in from Masoro, a three-year-old Masoro girl was suffering from an infection that was taking her eyesight.

Bellow: Aderine with her family and her weight gain formula. When she reached the hospital she weighed less than a tiny 16 month old girl.

Above: PSA's field manager took Aderine to the hospital in Muhanga District that could treat her extreme medical issues. This turned into more than 10 hours of driving for Claude Bizimana.

Cyaruzine Village Chief Nzariturande Jean Marie said, "Now that we are rich." When speaking to PSA about his village households being able to sign contracts with the electric provider.

For the people in Masoro living as the Cyaruzinge Villager's do: in 26 brick buildings with 12 square feet of indoor space per person sounds like luxury.

In April of 2020 PSA and HDI personal found a way to ship the people of Masoro and Cyaruzinge Villages donated food. By doing this through correct channels the Masoro people were seen as Covid-19 refugees and have been provided grain to eat by their sector through the many lockdowns.
