

Our Impact

TYoFU's impact ripples across families, the community, and generations to come. Young people, especially young women, employed in an empowering environment, improve their livelihoods and gain meaningful options for themselves and their families. Youth of all ages who receive mentorship, exposure to multiple disciplines, and leadership opportunities, are more likely to become innovative, community-minded leaders. A community wherein young people and local, healthy food are prioritized is more likely to enjoy wellbeing, an ethic of mutual care, and a sense of possibility.

Our Mission

Thriving Youth Farmers Uganda (TYoFU) uplifts the community's greatest resources - youth, innovative thinking, and rich farmland - to address widespread youth unemployment, gender inequity, poverty, environmental degradation, and food insecurity.

Founded by and for the community it serves, TYoFU operates as an NGO and a social enterprise, increasing health and opportunities for the people and environment of Wakiso, Uganda and beyond.

TYoFU aims to be a regenerative model, the fruits of its labor acting as the seeds for many generations to come.

How We Empower Youth

TYoFU helps the next generation to thrive. By employing youth of any gender between ages 15-30, the community's emerging adults gain stability, mentorship, and transferable skills. By offering agricultural, creative, and athletic programs to younger children, youth gain self-esteem and foundational capacities from an early age. By partnering with other established institutions in the fields of environment, design, agriculture, leadership, and more, TYoFU will ultimately be a center for vocational training and empowerment for youth from around Uganda.
