An update on your Children

WASH Project Completed – Clean Water for 4 Schools!

We're thrilled to announce the completion of our WASH (Water, Sanitation, and Hygiene) project this week! Despite our grant funding being cut in half by the Trump administration—specifically Senator Marco Rubio—we pressed on, and thanks to your unwavering support, four schools now have access to clean water! We installed 3 water tanks, dug 2 wells with water pumps, added 2 rainwater harvesting systems, and set up 10 water taps for the children's handwashing. The schools benefiting from this initiative include Kimandafu Primary, Nasholi Primary and Secondary, and Kikatiti Primary.

These improvements go far beyond hydration. With reliable water access, the schools can expand gardens and grow fruit trees to help combat malnutrition—especially vital as nearly 50% of students cannot afford lunch.

Although we're disappointed we couldn't install more tanks or provide water filters due to the budget cut, we've applied for more grants and are hopeful that, with additional funding, we can finish what we started.

Installing Gutters For Rain Water Harvesting at Kikatiti Primary

During school visits, we saw many children dressed in rags who clearly need support. After the WASH project wraps up, we plan to return and assess how we can help those children further. These four schools are where the majority of your sponsored children attend, so thanks to this project, Hope, Nancy, Zuwena, Darius, Hance, and many more now have access to clean water and will benefit from fresh fruits and vegetables grown at school.

Tanzania faces a deep orphan crisis, with over 2.5 million children living without one or both parents. The causes are complex—HIV/AIDS, malaria, TB, and high poverty rates leave orphans vulnerable to exploitation, hunger, and lack of education.

But there is hope. The 17 children in our SAC program are thriving—once malnourished and hopeless, now smiling and stable. This Friday, they'll attend an art workshop at our office. We'll be sharing their pictures soon! Thank you for standing with us. Because of you, the world is brighter for these children. WOW Tanzania – Making the world better, one child at a time.
