Vulnerable Children

Since 2014, Arte Pro has worked with over 1,100 children born into abuse, neglect, violence, and incarceration.

Art Empowers

Our program includes art, music, somatic movement, environmental education, ancestral culture, and play.

Impact Measurement

Our program shows strong scientific evidence of having the greatest positive impact on children's cognitive development, mental health, and social skills.

SUCCESS STORY*

LAURA, 14-YEAR OLD MOTHER
RESCUED FROM PROSTITUTION

"I participated in the activities of Arte Pro because they were very good and cultural, which I personally really like. It has helped me a lot at school, and I learned new things. I had never known ballet or an artist's studio before.

I really enjoyed painting and learning about the inspiration and working process of some artists. I believe that culture is always useful for everything, it's part of a good education. For me, art is a universal language.

From Arte Pro I take away all the creations and aspirations that I was able to embrace. I love painting and as long as I can expand that and other forms of art, I believe that I can contribute to the culture of Mexico.

*Since 2014 – Laura is currently studying at the School of Bellas Artes with the support of Arte Pro's follow-up program.

TESTIMONIAL

SILVIA, PEDAGOG IN SHELTER HOME
OF CHILDREN BORN IN PRISON

“At first, our children had very little communication and were very aggressive. As soon as the Arte Pro program started, the changes were immediately evident.

Personally, I have always been fascinated by what Arte Pro does. The children have a lovely time with professionals, and the best part is that they don't just work from foundation to foundation, instead they really work for the children.”
