What is Thalassaemia

Thalassaemia is a hereditary blood disorder. Thalassaemia major patients require frequent blood transfusions. Expensive iron chelation medications and other supportive treatment services throughout their lives.

Our Aim

KITCC aims to eliminate Thalassaemia from Pakistan. Spreading awareness, particularly about disease prevention, can lead to positive outcomes. Furthermore, it aims to simplify the systemic processes for patients' families in any. Additionally, it ensure better diagnosis and treatment for those suffering without any intention of profit.

Our Objective

In order to gain what we dream of we must be very consistent

1. People often underestimate the importance of screening and counseling until they learn about the severity of deadly Thalassaemia
2. Free Blood Transfusioner Many Thalassaemia patients die every year in Pakistan because of unaffordability of regular blood transfusions
3. Voluntary Blood Donors! Frequent awareness and blood donation camps help find volunteers for blood donations

Our Principles

1. Fulfilling the needs of the patients is our priority.
2. Serving the society towards the end of the sufferings of people
3. Reaching all the help from donors to save every life possible.
