IMPACT International School

About Us

Impact International School (IIS) was established in 2016 to provide curriculum-based instruction to school-aged children within the rural community of Hastings, Sierra Leone, 15 miles east of the capital city of Freetown.

Our Approach

IIS has prioritized the educational needs of children that have experienced abuse or neglect, children in foster care, and children with autism and other neurodiverse conditions.

In addition to its focus on care and critical thinking, IIS utilizes the evidence-based approach 'Teaching at the Right Level In Resource-Limited Settings' (TaRL) which targets improving primary grade literacy and numeracy skills. TaRL has demonstrated significant gains in student test scores for schools located in Sub-Saharan Africa and South Asia.

School Leadership

IIS is led by Mohamed Abass Sankoh, an educator and social entrepreneur with expertise which spans nonprofit management, community engagement, strategic planning, and youth development. Since 2020, Impact International School has also been guided by an international advisory board led by educators based in the United States, Canada, UK, Kuwait, and Belgium.
