Report Title: A Promising Start for the "Butterfly Effect" Project

Report Text:

Since the launch of the "Butterfly Effect" project at the Women and Child Rehabilitation Center in Kafr Takharim, we have taken initial steps toward achieving our goal of empowering women through vocational training in sewing.

So far, we have received a donation of $156 USD out of our total goal of $10,000 USD. This first contribution represents an important encouragement and support for us to continue preparing the center and providing the necessary training materials.

We are currently working on the logistical preparations for the training courses, including equipment maintenance and curriculum development. We have also started engaging with the targeted women to assess their needs and ensure their readiness to join the program.

We thank everyone who has contributed to supporting this project, and we look forward to more engagement and donations that will make a real difference in the lives of women in northern Syria.
