

Celebrating 65 years of Impact

Dignity & Care Report

Nomusa* is 82 years old.

She lives at Issy Geshen Lamont Home in South Africa, where she is cared for as part of our frail care unit. Like many of our residents, she lives with advanced frailty and requires daily support. For Nomusa, one of the most difficult challenges has been incontinence – a deeply personal and often distressing condition that quietly erodes dignity. Without a consistent supply of appropriate continence care, even the simplest parts of her day felt overwhelming.

Today, her story is different – because of you. Your support has made it possible for Nomusa to receive the essential care she needs. With access to adult nappies and nursing care from our caregiving team, she is now comfortable, clean and at ease.

At Issy Geshen Lamont Home – 69 frail elders rely on daily assistance for their most basic needs. Through your support, we have been able to provide consistent access to incontinence care products, ensuring that residents are cared for with dignity. Your contributions have also helped us provide nutritious meals, supporting the health and strength of residents who are particularly vulnerable to malnutrition.

Because of you, this care goes beyond meeting physical needs. It restores comfort. It rebuilds confidence. It reminds each resident that they are seen, valued and worthy of dignity.

On behalf of Nomusa and every resident at Issy Geshen Lamont Home whose life you have touched by your generosity – thank you.
