No one should be deprived of education

Rising inflation, poverty, unemployment and lack of resources have closed the doors of education to children from millions of families. Al-Khidmat's education department facilitates the path of acquiring knowledge for such children by providing them with books, stationery, uniforms and school bags free of cost. Under this program, wheelchairs are also provided free of cost to polio-affected children so that physical disabilities do not become an obstacle in their education.

Alkhidmat Bano Qabil Program

Pakistan is grappling with a severe economic crisis, where rising poverty and inflation have left many, especially the youth, struggling with unemployment. Recognizing the urgent need for skill-based education, Alkhidmat Foundation Pakistan has launched Banu Qabil, a groundbreaking IT training program. This initiative equips individuals with international-standard IT skills, enabling them to secure regular jobs or freelancing opportunities and achieve financial independence. Covering fields such as software development, web design, digital marketing, and cybersecurity, Banu Qabil empowers participants to thrive in the digital economy. The program is open not only to young individuals but also to housewives and low-income earners, helping them enhance their income and improve their quality of life. Admission is granted through a written test and interview, ensuring that motivated candidates receive top-quality training.

By bridging the gap between education and employment, Banu Qabil is transforming lives and contributing to Pakistan's economic growth. Through this initiative, Alkhidmat Foundation envisions a self-reliant and skilled workforce, capable of competing in global markets. By fostering digital literacy and financial empowerment, Banu Qabil is not only creating employment opportunities but also paving the way for a brighter, more prosperous Pakistan.

Poor state of the organizational system

Unfortunately, Pakistan's education system is currently in a terrible state. More than a third of the country's population is illiterate. Our current literacy rate is 60 to 62 percent, which is much lower than that of neighboring countries. According to a report by international organizations, more than 22.8 million children between the ages of 15 and 16 in the country are not enrolled in schools. This is the second largest number of out-of-school children in the world.

Alkhidmat Academic Scholarship

Due to lack of resources, millions of talented young boys and girls in Pakistan are deprived of higher education every year. A large number of such talented students are forced to leave their education incomplete due to financial problems, and remain disappointed throughout their lives. Under the Al-Khidmat Academic Scholarship, Al-Khidmat provides scholarships to such talented and capable students to help them continue their higher education. Every year, thousands of students are provided scholarships on merit in a very transparent manner.

Prominent Social Services

I am 16 years old, I am a resident of Khairpur area of Sindh province. My family is very poor. My father is unemployed due to which I did not go to school because he did not have money for school fees. Someone told Abu about Al-Khidmat Child Protection Center, he took me there and I got admitted. I studied with all my heart. Apart from the lack of quality education, even today many backward and rural areas are deprived of basic educational facilities. After the fifth grade, I was admitted to Forward School from where, Alhamdulillah, I passed my matriculation with good marks.

The success of nations lies in education.

The development of nations around the world depends on education. The path of development opens up for any nation that understands the importance of education and invests in its people's intellectual growth. A well-educated population contributes to economic progress, social stability, and technological advancements, making education the backbone of any thriving society. Countries that prioritize education witness higher employment rates, better healthcare systems, and stronger democratic institutions. Education not only enhances individual capabilities but also fosters critical thinking, innovation, and a sense of responsibility among citizens. Without a strong educational foundation, nations struggle to compete in the global arena, falling behind in economic growth, scientific research, and governance. Therefore, for any country aspiring to progress and prosperity, education must remain a top priority.
