

Hi, My Captain !

- A Volunteer Puppy Raiser's Story

That day, our whole family was filled with both excitement and anticipation as we prepared to welcome a new little member into our home. A Volunteer Puppy Raiser coordinator drove you to your new home. When the car door opened, seeing your peaceful, sleeping face instantly melted our hearts. Looking at your round, chubby little body, we happily brought your things inside and welcomed you into your new home.

When you first arrived, you were young and full of energy.

After a good meal, you would fall sound asleep, only to wake up ready to bounce around and explore every corner of the house.

As you gradually began socialization and training outside the home, you became familiar with different environments and people.

You were always curious during walks, stopping to sniff fallen leaves and fruit on the ground. Whenever you saw another dog, you would excitedly wag your little tail and want to go over and play. Even a friendly greeting from a neighbor could make you jump with excitement, as if saying, "I want to play with you too!"

Beyond training, Captain has brought our family so much joy and warmth.

You especially love your big sister. Every morning, you would eagerly wait for her to wake up so you could play together.

If you heard even the slightest sound from her room, you would grab a toy and wait by the door. You would also happily go with Mom to pick her up from school, your tail wagging excitedly the moment she got into the car, as if saying, "Let's go home! We have to play!"

At home, you love curling up beside my feet for a nap, sometimes even letting out a loud snore. When it is time to go back to your crate for the night, you often refuse to move from your little bed in the living room.

Captain seems to understand these little interactions so well that I have truly come to appreciate how much warmth and comfort he brings to our everyday lives.

As a Volunteer Puppy Raiser family, our time with Captain has been a gentle journey of care, learning, and responsibility. Every member of our family has grown through this experience, and we feel both proud and deeply aware of the responsibility we have taken on. You are more than a puppy growing up in our home—you are a young guide dog preparing for an important future, and we are grateful to be part of your journey. 🐾💕
