

CIVIC FORCE Operations Report 3 Months Since the Tohoku Earthquake

■ The transition to the restoration and reconstruction phase, 3 months after the quake

3 months after the earthquake, the Civic Force is shifting to the restoration and reconstruction phase.

Even now, more than 90,000 people are taking refuge, and the percentage of those moving into emergency temporary housing is on the order of 40%. Still, the water outage continues at close to 60,000 households, and the removal of rubble remains at approximately 22%. Steps towards restoration and reconstruction will be steady; also, the process will be continuing for a long time, but a plan that can cover standard administration has been established.

On the other hand, proactive activities aimed at restoration and reconstruction have begun to appear, and from here on, the plan is to concentrate Civic Force's power on efforts supporting those activities.

■ Curtailment of emergency support efforts

① Relief goods delivery and distribution operations

In regions where water services, electricity, and roads were torn to pieces, amongst a great number of people taking refuge en masse, at the Civic Force, we promptly and rapidly carried out the delivery and distribution of relief aid goods using helicopters and truck. From 3/23, we chartered 10 4-ton trucks every day, and in addition to regular service operation, we held individual hearings at small-scale refuge shelters and delivered the requested goods with attention to detail. Relief goods were identified due to a cooperative and proprietary needs investigation at the local headquarters for disaster prevention, and under the guidance of nutritionists, foods to replenish insufficient nutrients were added to the list established from refuge shelter eating habits and subsequently distributed. Relief goods delivered to the affected areas are as follows below (as of the end of May).

- Aggregate amount: 380 tons total
 - 160 4-ton trucks, 1 10-ton truck
 - Food: approx. 880,000 rations, includes approx. 180,000 clothing items
- Distributed commodities: 546 types total
 - Food: 200 types
 - Clothing: 66 types
 - Consumable goods: 138 types
 - Facility usage: 142 types
- Relief goods co-op enterprises: 140 companies (those providing goods at no charge)

Detailed delivery results are published at <http://civic-force.org/news/news-492.php>. For the purchase and transport of relief goods, 199,600,000¥ was set aside from donated monies.

Large scale delivery was finished at the end of May. Nonetheless, there are strong needs at the affected areas, and if they cannot be met by local stores reopening, there is a plan to deal with them on a flexible basis. In addition, on the Internet declaration of relief good support can be accepted at the "Dekiru koto" site <http://dekirukoto.fm/>, where new acceptance of declarations of support has been established. From 160 declarations of support, 45,000 items of 40 kinds of relief goods have been delivered.

② Restoration efforts for the distribution of goods

In Oshima, the largest inhabited outlying island in the Tohoku region, the jumbo car ferry called the "National Highway" was re-commissioned on 4/27. Hereafter, it will be coming and going carrying vehicles going to the mainland for hospitals or shopping, a large amount of food and medicine, support trucks and temporary housing construction materials, and construction vehicles. It will also be able to carry out trash and rubble from the island to the mainland. Recently, on 6/11, 14 house trailers arranged and supplied by the Civic Force, in particular, are being transported in three special shipments (picture below).

Civic Force arranged and implemented a car ferry from Hiroshima, taking responsibility of initial sundry expenses. So that it could be commissioned at an early stage, the early costs as well as the fuel expenses of the first month, in total approximately 17,000,000 ¥, are being taken care of by the Civic Force (6,740,000¥ so far). From June, funds from the Civic Force will be used not for relief but for stable services, including completing payment of the car ferry funds.

③ Hand-built bath operations

At the community refuge shelter in Minamisanriku, even now the water outage situation is continuing, and requests for baths are continuing as well. At the Civic Force, seeing the scene of baths heated directly from underneath made by all the local people, from 3/30 the construction of baths was commenced. Local carpenters and volunteer carpenters from Tokyo, along with the local people, built 6 baths within Minamisanriku, and now they are being used for family visits on weekends. Students returning from club activities and stopping by on weekdays have dubbed them the "Region's Baths."

Presently, we are trying to complete handing over operations to the region's people. Specifically, immediately after the earthquake, much was washed away by the tsunami, and it was difficult to come by tea, but we switched to kerosene hot water heaters, and tea preparation time was drastically reduced. Also, in order to reduce the stress of securing water, the local people are temporarily using the water wagon arranged by the Civic Force (picture below) to draw water, and we are switching over to a proper water supply system. Until now, 11,450,000¥ has been used for material expenses etc. for the bath operations.

■ "The outdoors really are this peaceful, aren't they?" - Continuing Operations

In Civic Force's cooperative partner operations, NPO Aichi Net heard one thing from those consulted. The NPO Aichi Net established a psychological care center christened "Kokoro-no-Sato (Mind's Home)" in a house trailer in Ofunato Civic Cultural Center and Library and are accepting psychological care requests. People swallowed up by the tsunami right in front of their eyes are even now passing every day in a state of mental disquiet. After the end of care, people who were able to shift their attention to the world outside of themselves are little by little facing rebuilding their lifestyles.

Cooperating in the same way, the On The Road NPO supported the restoration of businesses, and one Japanese pub owner made the following powerful comment: "Thanks to you this store was able to reopen. Thank you, truly. But, in this earthquake disaster, many of my friends passed away and many became victims. Without forgetting that, after etching it firmly into my heart, I have to move forward willingly. I won't ask for it all. Just half is okay, I earnestly hope for a town where the light shines like in the old days. Ishinomaki will absolutely be reborn. I'm counting on it."

Towards an in depth look at the needs of affected areas

From April, Civic Force has been vigorously developing cooperative operations with partner organizations. More than in times of peace, in times of disaster, as Civic Force partner organization along with specialized organizations, there is a plan to answer emergency support needs not previously met. In the case of donations, in close scrutiny with external specialists, Civic Force is monitoring each organization and operation details at the affected areas, in addition to the monthly report.

■ The lifestyle that has quickly quieted down, even if just a little bit - Lifestyle Rebuilding

In regards to the lifestyle rebuilding of people in the affected areas, we will continue to support the removal of phenomenon that have become a barrier.

Specifically, in addition to providing approximately 1,000 plywood panels for repairing houses, we are loaning 14 house trailers through local organizations free of charge as well as developing other activities for people who want to repair their houses while residing in emergency temporary housing (picture below: house trailers unloaded from the ferry). Also, at the Civic Force, there is a plan to supply 1,200 emergency tents to make temporary residential areas necessary for the repair of houses.

Furthermore, 6 house trailers established within Minamisanriku will be used by support leaders like health care providers and fire departments, and we are planning on continuing support operations at length without slowing down.

Also, we are continuing to examine and coordinate the way central management ought to go about the provision of lifestyle information necessary for individuals to rebuild their lifestyles. We have centralized management of information at the national, prefectural, and city level, and if a consultation time in the future should appear, we are thinking about whether the lifestyle rebuilding of victimized people can be accelerated or not.

■ Bolstering the region with the power of business - Restoration of Industry

As expected, the thing that will make the region vigorous once again is business. The Civic Force is effectively investing the citizen's power in disaster support in particular for enterprises and administrations, but as for the restoration of the industry we are supporting extending efforts drawing out the power of businesses. At the present time, in the Kesenuma region and more, we are repeatedly and prudently conducting examinations along with external experts for an arrangement and technique for the provision of capital in regards to business persons working actively. At any time the plan is open to the public and can be viewed at our homepage.
